Union Approves of Order
From Berlin for Workers to Take Required Oath
Before Going to Work.

SATURDAY'S LOOTING SUCCEEDED BY QUIET

Police Put Down Trouble at Gelsenkirchen, Wounding
Dozen Persons and Jailing Others.

By the Associated Press.
DUESSELDORF, Oct. 15.—The German railroad men's organization in the occupied area has approved an order issued in Berlin by Herr Oeser, the Minister of Communications, instructing the men to work for the Franco-Belgian railway administration and to take the required oath, French headquarters announced today.

The Berlin Government has explained that the oath is considered to have only disciplinary significance, not involving the question of German sovereignty.

The railroad men's union, the French authorities, state, has instructed the men to report to the Franco-Belgian railway officials Wednesday of next week to be registered.

Sunday passed quietly in the Ruhr district in vivid contrast to Saturday's carnival of plundering. In almost every town in the Ruhr, however, the police have given special "alert" orders and there is general anxiety lest plundering break out again.

Gelsenkirchen, known colloquially as the "hard-boiled town of the Ruhr," was subjected to promiscuous looting Saturday when a dozen shops were cleaned out of their supplies. The German police interfered and wounded a dozen of the rioters and arrested several of them.

The police today raided a number of houses situated near looted stores and recovered large quantities of merchandise. Sixteen alleged leaders of the looters were arrested by the authorities of occupation. Several of the prisoners will be court-martialed and the others surrendered to German authorities.

Political Scene.

The unoccupied looted houses and elsewhere in the Ruhr during the last three days is declared at French headquarters to have been more of a "joufflant" maneuver arranged by connivance between the nationalists and the communists, than due to real suffering through unemployment. The French officials lay the blame upon Dr. Gruetzmacher, the former district president, who since his expulsion from Duesseldorf has continued to exercise authority indirectly from Barmer, just across the border from the occupied zone.

In a conference with the French attaché great significance, a recent announcement in the German press, that the emergency offices for relief of the unemployed would be transferred from Berlin to Barmer and also to a semi-official agency dispatch from Barmer quoting Dr. Gruetzmacher as predicting that within a few days the economic situation in the Ruhr would be such that fire arms would be needed to disperse the hungry demonstrators. This according to the expelled official, would lead to a situation so explosive that it would be bad for the French that they would have to defend the Ruhr occupation as a bad job.

Evidences pointed to as indicating that the plundering was not entirely due to hunger, the fact that hundreds of pounds of foodstuffs were dumped in the streets, sacks of flour were ripped open and left on the floors of the stores and barrels of oil were tapped and allowed to flood the pillaged establishments.

The French statistical bureau announced that the food supplies in the occupied area were much above the normal, 1650 carloads having entered the occupied area Saturday, whereas the average daily imports before the abandonment of passive resistance were less than 600 carloads and the average before

ADRIFT SIX DAYS, LASHED TO RAFT, SOLE SURVIVOR OF SHIP DRIFTS ASHORE

Member of Crew of Five of Gasoline Cruiser, Which Sank Oct. 7, in Gulf of Mexico, Is Found Wandering in Dazed Condition.

By the Associated Press.
NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 15.—News of the sinking of the gasoline cruiser Fidget of New Orleans and the death of four members of her crew, all off the southern shore of Breton Island, in the Gulf of Mexico, Oct. 7, has been brought to the quarantine station at the mouth of the Mississippi River by the lone survivor, Renard John Olsen, Rydington of Aasund, Norway.

Rydington, in a dazed condition, was found wandering Sunday on the hunting preserve of Jospeh Lester of Chicago, by Gus Perens, keeper of the grounds. After being given food and clothing, he was taken to the quarantine station. He told officials he had been without food or fresh water for six days, during which he had been lashed to an improvised raft, which drifted into Cupid's Gap, a half mile from the quarantine station, two hours before he was found.

On the morning of Oct. 6, Rydington said he had signed up as a member of the crew of the Fidget, a 60-foot boat, by Capt. O. Gabrielsen and was told the vessel was leaving on a trial trip to Havana. He sailed the same day with the captain and three other men, Ole Johnson and two others, who he knew only as John and Memphis.

Arriving in the Gulf, the Fidget encountered rough weather. Everything went all right until the following evening when the vessel sprang a leak off Breton Island. Efforts to repair the damage were unsuccessful and the captain gave orders for the construction of a raft out of timbers from the cabin and lifeboats. The ship was abandoned at 7 p.m., Rydington said, the crew taking to the raft. The Fidget went down about midnight.

During the night all members of the crew, with the exception of Rydington, were washed from the raft several times, but each time he was rescued, a day or two later, a huge wave swept over the craft carrying with it all members of the crew, but Rydington, who managed to save himself by clinging to a rope tied around timbers of the float.

For six days Rydington said he drifted in the Gulf, practically at all times within sight of land, his craft finally beaching at Cupid's Gap at daybreak yesterday. He said several vessels passed within two or three miles of him when he was drifting, but his efforts to attract their attention by waving his shirt were in vain.

Rydington was placed on a board of a steamship at Quarantine and was brought up the river to be placed in the Marine Hospital here for treatment. He showed the effects of his experience, his face and hands being badly blistered and his lips swollen from lack of water.

Rupprecht Leads Ceremony in Munich for Fallen War Heroes.
(Copyright, 1923, by the Press and Publishing Co., and the Post-Dispatch.)

MUNICH, Oct. 15.—The movement for the construction of a new Teutonic State to take the place of the present crumbling one in Bavaria began yesterday with a solemn mass for fallen war heroes belonging to the Bavarian Knighthood Order of Maximilian Joseph.

Former Crown Prince Rupprecht, who is Knight Commander, stood at the head of 200 members of the knighthood in the Maximilian Joseph Church, known as the "court church," while flags were lowered over the sarcophagus.

Sunday was the anniversary of the order, which was founded in 1868 by the Bavarian Duke Elector Max Joseph, later King.

The original purpose was to hold a public ceremonial at Kelheim, near Regensburg, today, at the anniversary of the birth of Louis, but it was called off at Rupprecht's request. He is more concerned with reviving the Bavarian national spirit than in the large democratic demonstration which the Kelheim meeting would have developed.

BERLIN, Oct. 15.—The British government's acceptance of the suggestion of the Belgian foreign office for a reference of the Belgian reparation plan to the inter-allied reparation commission as the basis of a concrete plan in this impending negotiations for a settlement of the question of German reparations, was received at the foreign office Sunday.

This completes the general accord by all the allies—Italy having given its assent to the proposal Saturday—and the reparation commission will proceed officially to study the Belgian plan with a view to ascertaining whether it can be used as the basis for a solution of the problem of reparation when the negotiations concerning them are resumed.

No Exchange of Views.
The Belgian document has been unofficially before the reparation commission for some weeks. The French, British and Italian members of the commission have been conversing with its contents, but up to the present there has been no official discussion or an exchange of views on it.

The broad outline of the plan provides for a minimum of $9,000,000 gold marks as Germany's indemnity, to which is added 2,000,000 gold marks in "C" bonds.

The plan gives 1,000,000,000 gold marks as the amount in yearly payments Germany can make. It gives the figures as arrived at, together with all technical documents. By reorganization of the German railroads along the lines elaborated, according to the plan, they could be made to yield 1,000,000,000 gold marks alone, while other monopolies, such as tobacco, wines, beer, mineral waters, sugar, salt, matches and coal, if managed as the experts advise, would provide an additional 1,500,000,000 gold marks.

French on Accord.

To these figures, the plan adds, may be added 500,000,000 gold marks as the fruits of eventual participation by the allies in German industrial enterprises.

It was stated here today that the Belgian proposal meets with the full assent of the French Government.

The British and French governments are said not to be perturbed over the letter of Chancellor Stremann to Hugo Stinnes, published in Berlin, in which the Chancellor says the British Government is unable to undertake to guarantee payment of the German industrialists for deliveries in kind they agreed to make to the allies. It is pointed out that an accord already had been reached with several firms in the Ruhr which are prepared to resume deliveries without the contingency of payment having been discussed.

TWO YOUTHS ADMIT THREE ROBBERIES, SIX ARRESTS MADE

Bridegroom and Friend
Taken After Dairy Driver
Tells Police He Got $30
Share of $1500 Loot.

$3000 TAKEN FROM 2 JEWELRY STORES

Confession Also Made by Driver of Autos Used in Crimes—Money Spent on Girls, Clothes, Joyrides.

Eleven weeks of robbery and rev-ery, with one honeymoon thrown in, ended for Clarence Ruhr, a bridegroom, and Floyd Fitzgerald, each 20 years old, when they were arrested yesterday in their boarding place, 3971 Delmar boulevard.

They have confessed that they robbed two jewelry establishments, one of them in a downtown building, July 28 and Oct. 4, and that they held up the Jersey Farm Dairy Co. office, 3533 Evans avenue, Oct.
8, taking $1500. The jewelry and money taken in the two earlier robberies is estimated as exceeding $3000.

Driver Confesses.

He has stated that he first purchased a spurious high school graduation certificate, setting forth, under the seal of the Department of Public Schools, that "Harry Thompson" passed an examination before Sachs in April, 1914.

He stated that his first negotiations were with Dr. Adcox, and that later the issuance of the diploma was arranged by Sachs and the Kansas City physicians.

The National University of Arts and Sciences closed in 1918. Sachs was a speaker in behalf of Senator Reed in the senatorial primary campaign of last year, speaking in several Missouri towns.

One of those whose names appeared on the diploma as a member of the Board of Administrators of the National University of Arts and Sciences was Dr. George H. Owen, dentist in the Metropolitan Building.

When shown a facsimile of the alleged purchased diploma bearing his signature, among the others, he said it appeared to be a reproduction of this signature, but he had not signed any diploma since 1918, when he was a student in business. He said it was his guess that an old diploma had been taken, the student's name erased and the name of Harry Thompson substituted.

Says He Got $30 in Share.

Greenemay said his absence on that day was not because of any knowledge that there was to be a robbery that day, but was actually caused by drink, as he first said.
When he heard that the office had been robbed, he said, he telephoned to the boarding house, as his acquaintances had given him the number, and talked to Fitzgerald. Fitzgerald, he said, replied, "We pulled it, and it was easy. Come out and get your share."

The milk driver went out and received $30 in small bills from Fitzgerald and Ruhr. He saw the money taken from a vase.

After the arrest of Fitzgerald and Ruhr, the police arrested Benjamin Bethel, 17, of 1515 North Spring avenue, who admitted having driven two stolen automobiles at different times in the robbery with the others.

Part of Loot Lost.

Fitzgerald, Ruhr and Bethel confessed the dairy robbery and the other robberies, of which the one on July 28 was at the Weiss Jewelry Co., United Home Building, and that of Oct. 4 was at the Jewelry establishment of Eugene Kiefer, 5059
Evans avenue. The larger amount of jewelry was taken at the latter place. Bethel related that he received $1000, $40 and jewelry which he sold for $100, and that he had some of Fitzgerald's share of the jewelry for $150.

He said he lost one package of stolen jewelry, by placing it on a fence ledge near Glasgow avenue and Henton street when he saw police approaching in an automobile.

When he returned to the place the jewelry was not there.

The young men said they spent the money on joy rides, clothing and girls.

SERMON ON LANDLORDS WHO BAR CHILDREN

Minister's Subject Apparently Inspired by Own Experience in House-Hunting.

His own recent experiences in house-hunting prompted the Rev. Grant A. Robbins, district superintendent of the Methodist Church, to preach yesterday, in Union Church, on the attitude of apartment house owners toward children.

"When Roosevelt was President," Dr. Robbins said, "we all hung in our homes the picture of his family. His letters to his children have made a volume which will remain when other books of Roosevelt are forgotten."

"When the great world war came, those boys were all in uniform. The youngest one took to the air, and when flying against the sky like an eagle, he met his enemy, and the enemy of his country, and gave his life for his ideal, and that of his people."

"And yet, this family would have been undesirable in many apartments of St. Louis, and in many other cities in the land."

Tells Own Experience.

"In our day, the door of hope is shut in the faces of little children, and the faces of their parents because of them. I have recently became a house hunter. Loving my own little child greatly, I have been surprised at the attitude of some people toward children generally. At one apartment two ladies of unknown age, evidently having no children of their own, haughtily told me no 8-year-old boy could live in the apartment building."

The words of one other person were like a blow in the face. When asked the price of the apartment he answered quickly: "One hundred ten and no children." I informed him that I had a little boy of 8 that was worth more than all the apartments he had or that were in St. Louis.

"This little boy's brother was in St. Mihiel and the Argonne as a messenger bearer and guide during the war. He was there ostensibly to 'make the world safe for democracy.' In the light of events and my present experience, I wonder if he was not there in reality to make the profit safe for the rent man, into whose apartments his father and mother could not go, unless they could somehow conveniently dispose of his little brother."

Program Should Be Revised.

"Does it not seem that the program should be revised and that we should hold first, not our convenience or pleasure, or our profit, but our service to the world? Rather than saying 'Send them away,' should we not say what he loved them, said, in the long ago: 'Suffer them to come unto me and forbid them not.'"

2 LIVES AND $2,000,000 LOST IN LOS ANGELES BRUSH FIRES

Six Industrial Plants and Oil Well Among Property Destroyed in City's Environs.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 15.—Smoldering embers in the hills and the charred ruins of many buildings were reminders today of the weekend of fire in the environs of Los Angeles that began Saturday morning and was still burning late last night.

The brush fire, which took two lives in its sweep over a 15-mile area north of Glendale and Eagle Rock, near here, had hardly been brought under control yesterday, when the flames reappeared in another section. A dozen houses, six industrial plants and an oil well were burned. One fire which destroyed a lumber yard and a furniture manufacturing plant in Vernon, south of here, was believed to have resulted in loss of life, though no bodies had been found in the ruins early today.

In the Santa Monica Mountains, west of here, a brush fire in La Flores canyon was under control today after having burned over an area of 1,200 acres and destroyed three houses. Then thousand acres at Palo Verde, near the harbor district, were swept by flames.

Estimates of the fire involved in the disaster are $2,000,000.

Four persons were killed in the disaster, including two women.

Two men were injured.

Outing Flannel

Robbed of $30,000 in Holdup.

By the Associated Press.
TULSA, Ok., Oct. 15.—B. F. Ellington of Topeka, Kan., was held up here Friday night and robbed of $30,000, which he had brought to Tulsa to invest in oil leases, according to a statement by W. H. Sullow, a local oil man and a friend of Ellington. Ellington came here, Sullow said, after two men had told him that they could arrange the sale of the securities.

Government Ownership A Colossal Blunder

The Late President HARDING

President Harding, in a speech at Kansas City, took a firm stand against Government ownership of the railroads. He said in part as follows:

"It is worth while to bear in mind, in the face of current agitation, that we could not replace our railroads for a vastly larger sum than the valuation placed upon them by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and it is fortunate for our people that we do not have to contemplate a rate structure founded upon replacement cost. Events of the last few years have made us all realize that the railroads must be administered under some policy that will make it possible to find the capital whereby to expand the existing systems as business shall require, without imposing an impossible burden upon industry and consumption."

"The railroad question is not a theoretical problem. When the Government undertook operation during the war and standardized wages and was caught in the sweeping current of mounting cost, it created a situation to ignore which would quickly develop a national menace. At an awful cost we learned the extravagance and mounting burden of Government operation. Yet there are to-day very insistent advocates of Government ownership. Frankly,

This advertisement does not reproduce all of President Harding's speech, in which he urged the consolidation of the railroads; but it is interesting to note his position on the subject insofar as it referred to Government ownership of the railroads as advocated by many politicians and even sincere people who think this is a solution of the railroad problems. The President's insight into the workings of the Government and his knowledge of the handling of railroads by the Government during the War made him go on record strongly against the Government's undertaking again the running of the railroads.

THE OLD RELIABLE

SIX PERSONS BURNED TO DEATH IN FRAME HOUSE

Another Seriously Hurt in Leap From Attic When Dwelling in Brooklyn Is Destroyed.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Six persons were burned to death when fire destroyed a three-story frame dwelling in the Bensonhurst section of Brooklyn today. The dead are:

MRS. LILLIAN ANDREWS, her nephew, CHARLES, and niece, MARGARET.

GEORGE KEIM.
MISS FRANCIS P. FOWLER.
MISS ROBERTA WIGERT.
Mrs. Anna Andrews, trapped from the attic and seriously hurt. Neighbors seeing smoke rolling from the basement of the dwelling rushed to the spot just in time to see Mrs. Andrews leap from a window of the attic apartment. Later firemen found the charred bodies of the six victims where apparently they had been overcome after escape had been cut off by the flames.

The body of Charles Andrews, 19 years old, athlete and student at Polytechnic Institute, Brooklyn, lay just inside a rear window. Near him lay his aunt, Mrs. Lillian Andrews. The body of 12-year-old Margaret was found clasped in the arms of Miss Wigert, a maid, in an adjoining room.

The ruins of a third bedroom disclosed the body of Fowler. Keim had been trapped in an attempt to reach a window.

Keim was producer of a musical comedy "Ginger," which was to have had its final rehearsing at Daly's Theater tonight. Fowler was a wealthy Tampico, Mexico, man, here on business.

Mexican Officers, Radicals, Resign.
By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, Oct. 15.—Luis Morones, chief of the national military supplies factories, and Celestino Gasca, Governor of the Federal District, have resigned. Both are leaders of the radical elements in Mexican organized labor. They resigned in order to participate in political campaigns, which the Government had forbidden officials to engage in.

WOMAN WHO RECEIVED
POISONED CANDY HELD

Foreman at Factory Where She Is Employed Also Arrested
By the Police.

Miss Ruby Bowne, 22 years old, of 762 Walton avenue, and Arnold J. Salg, 32, of 2828 Lemp avenue, a foreman, are held at the Carr Street Police Station today pending further investigation of the mailing of a box of poisoned candy two weeks ago to Miss Bowne at the Elder Manufacturing Co., Thirteenth street and Lucas avenue, where she was employed.

As is known, six young women employed with Miss Bowne in the shirt department, were made ill by eating some of the candy. Others, including Miss Bowne, who ate some of it, suffered no ill effects. An analysis by the City Chemist disclosed the candy contained arsenic.

Capt. Stinger, commanding the Carr Street District, said Miss Bowne and Salg were taken into custody yesterday.

Miss Bowne told a Post-Dispatch reporter today that Salg has been anxious to divorce his wife, who is her step-sister, so that he might marry her. He married her step-sister nine years ago.

Several anonymous letters have been received by the police suggesting various theories in the poison candy case.

Both Miss Bowne and Salg deny knowing of the candy until it was delivered to her at the factory.

Capt. Stinger said that in addition to the investigation of the poison candy case he planned to submit circumstances to Federal officials.

TURKS REFUSE TO MODIFY
CHESTER CONCESSION TERMS

Requests for Time Extension and Change of Railroad to Narrow Gauge Basis Denied.
(Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch and
New York World, from the Manchester Guardian.)
(Copyright, 1923.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 15.—Ismet Pasha's proposal to make Ankara the capital of Turkey was passed by the assembly by a large majority.

From an official source it is learned that the Government has rejected Col. B. Clayton Kennedy's demands for modifications of the Admiralty Chester concession. Kennedy, besides asking for a two months' extension on the time limit for beginning work, has proposed that the railroad construction be continued on a narrow gauge system instead of the system in general use.

This was in accordance with the advice of American engineers. He also proposed to begin exploitation of mines immediately.

The Government having refused his requests, Kennedy said he would begin work on the Samson-Sivas line by Nov. 8 as stipulated in his contract. He left Ankara yesterday for Paris and London.

DECIDED DECREASE SHOWN IN THE GERMAN BIRTH RATE

NOW DOWN ALMOST TO THE LOWEST LEVEL OF THE WAR PERIOD—Decline in Deaths Also.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—Germany's birth rate for the second quarter of 1923 shows a decided decline, according to official figures for 46 German cities. In the corresponding quarter of 1922 there were 75,728 children born, as against 68,512 last year. For the first quarter of 1923 the number of children born was 69,630. The birth rate is now down almost to the lowest level of the war period. Commenting on the figures the Medical Weekly says:

"As there is a firm ratio between the dollar rate and the birth statistics, a further big decline is expected."

On the other hand the mortality rate is not so high for the second quarter of this year as it was in 1922. There were only 52,446 deaths in the second quarter of this year as contrasted with 55,345 for the same period last year.

OPIUM SEIZURES INCREASED

Customs Secret Service Makes Report on Operations at Manila.

MANILA, Sept. 11.—Seizures of goods, especially of illicit opium shipments, smuggled into the Philippine Islands during the second quarter of 1923 increased enormously over previous records, according to a report just issued by the customs secret service.

During the quarter the secret service seized 193 kilos and 669 grams of opium in the port of Manila alone. The value of the goods was placed at $47,500. During the same period last year only one gram of opium was seized.

Convictions resulting from the seizures during the record quarter netted $197,050. Sentences amounted to more than 24 years.

Callao and Barcelo, Captured in 1898, Offered to Highest Bidder.

By the Associated Press.

MANILA.—Two United States naval vessels, in whose dark hulls is buried the account of years teeming with history and romance, have been placed on sale by the United States Bureau of the Navy. These are the Callao and the Barcelo, both of which were captured from the Spanish at Cavite in 1898 when the Cavite naval yard surrendered. Now the United States navy is getting rid of them—to the highest bidder.

Retiring National Commander Urges on Conservation Need of Conserving Natural Resources.

SEES BETTER THINGS FOR ILL AND DISABLED

Reason, He Declares, Justifiable Prediction Passage of Adjusted Compensation Bill.

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15.—Win M. Owlesley, retiring national commander of the American Legion, gave his farewell address today before the organization's national convention called upon the men of the legion with patriotic hearts, "pure as gold," to respond in this hour fraught with many possibilities and laden with whispers of impending danger.

"There is no back sliding for the legion away from the original pose of its founding," he said. "The Constitution of the United States which is the supreme law of the land must be upheld and defended you."

"Law and order will be kept preserved; right proclaimed proudly asserted the Master of the Legion." Owlesley declared. "The mottoes of our sacrifices as commands must be carefully observed and well being, happiness and prosperity of all sanctified by our devotion mutual helpfulness."

"Our immense treasure of natural resources must not be wasted; profligate expenditure for individual gain or profit and benefit accrue to groups and combination of capital that sometime may acquire vast holdings against the public policy and common good. Let us then inaugurate and freely support an extensive program for the conservation of our natural resources, reclamation of waste lands, homes, farms and expressions of individualism can be built and established; preserve and give full attention to our national forests, parks and rivers and the development of our waterways, rivers and canals."

"The wild animal, so distinct part of American history, is passing out, so much so we may it is nearly extinct. Our birds have been slaughtered and destroyed on so extravagant a scale that are rarely to be seen; our streams, brooks, rivers and lakes, once with fish, are stagnant and dead and empty. Attention will be given to protection of forest and fish—closed seasons for salmon fishing—encouragement to the State nation for their breeding and migration and the restocking of waters with fish will in a large measure give needed employment to numerous workers, and draw to the region the acknowledgment of right thinking men and whom our controlling desire for unending labor."

Always and fixed in the mind of the legion is the recognition and desire to uphold and further the interest of the laboring people, he continued.

"Our is the song of better churches and schools, the inheritance and God-given right of man to work out his own salvation in his own way and chosen time. We Legion, adhere to the doctrinal man's greatest happiness is found in his laughter, his labors."

Owlesley said he brought a message of enthusiasm, "a statement of accomplishment in which we can pride, the assurance of duty conscientiously performed, a declaration of hope and courage, a look into the future that is radiating inspiring."

"When speaking to the delegates at New Orleans, as the newly elected national commander, I commended the Legion under my leadership for its comprehensive principles—dear—hospitalization, re habilitation, adjusted compensation."

The separate reports of different heads appear to me to be of consistent progress toward better status for our sick and disabled comrades; a justifiable division of the passage of the $40 compensation bill by the Congress and the inauguration of patriotic American Legion leadership on matters of education, respect for our flag, our unemployment permanent down town for decoration of foreign lands, an understanding and a business conception of the Legion's opportunity of educating and protecting the orphan children of service men, the announcement and introduction to the nations to the world of the Legion's cause of an international conference on Page 16.

Retiring National Commander Urges on Convention Need of Conserving Natural Resources.

SEES BETTER THINGS FOR ILL AND DISABLED

Reason, He Declares, for Justifiable Prediction "of Passage of Adjusted Compensation Bill."

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15.—Alvin M. Owsley, retiring national commander of the American Legion, in his farewell address today before the organization's national convention, called upon the men of the legion, with patriot hearts, pure as gold, to respond in this hour fraught with many possibilities and laden with whispers of impending danger.

"There is no back sliding for the legion away from the original purpose of its founding," he said, "and the Constitution of the United States, which is the supreme law of the land, must be upheld and defended by you."

"Law and order will be kept and preserved; right proclaimed and proudly asserted as the Master of Light," Owsley declared. "The members of our sacrifices as comrades must be carefully conserved and the well being, happiness and prosperity of all sanctified by our devotion to mutual helpfulness."

"Our immense treasure of national resources must not be wasted in squandering expenditure for individuals for profit and benefit accruing to groups and combination of capital that sometime may acquire and keep vast holdings against the public policy and common good. Let us inaugurate and freely support an extensive program for the conservation of our natural resources; reclamation of waste lands, where homes, farms and expressions of individualism can be built and established; reserve and give fullest protection to our national forest reserves and parks; and the development of our waterways, rivers and canals."

The wild animal, so distinctly a part of American history, is fast passing out, so much so we may say it is nearly extinct. Our birds have been slaughtered and destroyed on every scale that they are able to be found; our streams, brooks, rivers and lakes, once filled with fish, are stagnant or fished out and empty. Attention, wise, given to protection of forest and field-blown season for animals and birds—encouragement to the State and nation for their breeding and propagation and the restocking of all our waters with fish will in a large measure give needed employment to numerous workers, and draw to the legend the acknowledgment from right-thinking men and women of our controlling desire for unselfish labor."

Always and fixed in the mind of the legion is the recognition and desire to uphold and further the best interest of the laboring people, Owsley continued.

"Ours is the song of better homes, churches and schools, the inalienable and God-given right of man to work out his own salvation in his own way and chosen time. We, the Legion, adhere to the doctrine that man's greatest happiness is to be found in his laughter, his labor and love."

Owsley said he brought a message of enthusiasm, "a statement of accomplishment in which we can take pride, the assurance of duty conscientiously performed, a declaration of hope and courage, a vision into the future that is radiant and inspiring."

"When speaking to the delegates at New Orleans as the newly elected national commander, I committed the Legion under my leadership to four comprehensive principles of endeavor—hospitalization, rehabilitation, adjusted compensation and Americanism," he said.

The separate reports of department heads appear to me to speak of consistent progress toward a better state for our sick and disabled comrades; a justifiable proportion of the passage of the adjusted compensation bill by the next Congress and the inauguration of the empire delegation referred to in my last article. This was only part of the general muddle, not yet resolved, concerning British foreign relations.

The dominions have an equal voice in the determination of British foreign policy, or are they prepared to leave this to Downing street and commit themselves, in fact if not in theory, to fight at a moment's notice over controversies about which they know little or nothing?

Giving Dominions Voice on Foreign Policy Is Problem for Imperial Conference

Determination of British Governing Caste to Keep Power of Deciding Empire's Course Makes Situation More Difficult.

The British Empire has come to one of its greatest crises. The dominions now claim rights to fellowship with Great Britain in conducting international affairs. They insist on consultation with them on foreign relations. They also demand a full voice in settling the empire's economic problems. These matters are now being threshed out in the Imperial Conference in London. John L. Balderston, the Post-Dispatch's correspondent, has written a series of four articles dealing with the background of this momentous conference, of which the following is the second.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.
In my first article on the Imperial Conference I quoted the decision to hold a "conference on constitutional relations after the war." This was adopted in 1917, but it was not until June 20, 1921, that the Dominion Premiers again convened in London.

The first quarrel was about the name of the gathering. The term "Imperial War Cabinet" could not be used in peace time. Winston Churchill and some other Ministers wanted it called the "Imperial Cabinet," and six weeks before the first meeting Churchill, in a public speech, referred to the coming session as "not like the old Imperial Conferences, which were occasional and periodic institutions, but a meeting of the regular Imperial Cabinet of the British Empire."

This pronouncement turned out to be the death knell of Federation. In preliminary exposition, I have now come down to the most important practical issue of the moment, the one which every one concerned would like to settle this year, though there is no respect of its settlement. The principle that the dominions have an equal right to participate with the mother country in foreign policy already has been officially admitted by Asquith and by all the Prime Ministers who have succeeded him.

In practice, however, events of the last two years since the 1921 conference adjourned have proved how difficult it is to carry out this principle. The 1921 conference was supposed to have settled the general lines on which British foreign policy, acting in the name of the empire, would be pursued throughout Europe and the East.

Australian Premier Complains.

There was an immediate storm in the dominions, where a plot was scented to deprive them of their status as autonomous nations by making them, compared with an intended Imperial Government, of less autonomy than an American State compared with Washington.

Lloyd George saw how the wind was blowing, and quieted dominion fears by telling a questioner in the House of Commons a month later that until the meeting had been held it would be called "The Imperial Conference." The word "Cabinet" was then dropped.

That phrase, "Imperial Conference," has stuck, and is applied to the meeting now under way, but it should be emphasized that it is not official. The conference has no name, because the dominions and Great Britain never have been able to agree on one.

Nothing was published concerning the 1921 conference except the opening speeches of the Prime Ministers. Each of these men insisted, in these utterances, that there was no intention of interfering with dominion liberty or of making any radical changes in the extremely nebulous fabric of imperial relations.

Consultation Recommended.

The one important published result of this 1921 conference was the adoption of the following resolution:

"The Prime Ministers of the United Kingdom and the dominions, having carefully considered the recommendation of the Imperial War Conference of 1917, that a special imperial conference should be summoned as soon as possible after the war to consider the constitutional relations of the component parts of the empire, the interests of the empire, the fewer people who know something of the latter. This was typical of the old diplomacy, is, of course, a complete negation of the principle that the dominions are entitled to an equal voice in foreign policy. If they don't know what is going on, their voice, when it comes, is heard too late."

Question of Caste Involved.

There is, also, as an all-important factor, the policy of the professional diplomats in the Foreign Office. These men do not propose, if they can help it, to share their secrets and their responsibilities and their power with "cruel" colonials who have never been to Eton or Oxford.

That last remark is not an irrelevancy, but supremely important, for it involves the question of whether there is a Government class of "right" families who come from the "right" universities, ever can hope to attain the seats of the mighty in diplomacy.

(a) Continuous consultation, to which the Prime Ministers attach no less importance than the Imperial War Conference of 1917, can only be secured by a substantial improvement in the means of communication between the component parts of the empire. Having regard to the constitutional developments since 1917, no advantage is to be gained by holding a constitutional conference.

(b) The Prime Ministers of the United Kingdom and the dominions and the representatives of India should aim at meeting annually, or at such longer intervals as may prove feasible.

(c) The existing practice of direct communication between the Prime Ministers of the United Kingdom and the dominions as well as the right of the latter to nominate Cabinet Ministers to represent them in consultation with the Prime Minister of the United Kingdom, is strongly opposed to the French Ruhr policy.

(d) Many ticklish questions.

The two years that elapsed between the 1921 conference and the meeting this year have brought to the fore many ticklish questions affecting imperial relations. There was the Washington conference, and the quarrel about the make-up of the empire delegation referred to in my last article. This was only part of the general muddle, not yet resolved, concerning British foreign relations.

The dominions have an equal voice in the determination of British foreign policy, or are they prepared to leave this to Downing street and commit themselves, in fact if not in theory, to fight at a moment's notice over controversies about which they know little or nothing?

"PREFERENCE" PLEDGE STIRS OPPOSITION

Conservatives, Led by Derby, Have Protested Against Foreign Policy Speeches at Imperial Conference.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and the New York World. Copyright, 1923, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—"Die-hard" members of the British Cabinet, headed by Lord Derby, have protested to Premier Baldwin against the foreign policy pronouncements in the Imperial conference. They have demanded that no more British Government statements be made by Dominion Premiers without the sanction of a full British Cabinet meeting, and also have asked that no further speeches at the Imperial conference be allowed.

The pro-French section of the Cabinet is understood to be angry at the support which the Dominion representatives, notably Gen. Smuts of South Africa, and Premier Bruce of Australia, have been giving Lord Curzon, who is now an exponent of a "strong" foreign policy, as against other ministers, who have not part in the sessions of the Imperial conference.

Derby Against "Preference" Pledge.

Lord Derby, who is a free trader, is understood to have protested against the Government pledge of "preference" to the dominions. This situation is most embarrassing to Premier Baldwin, as the Imperial conference has no constitutional status, and it is admitted that if the Cabinet protests, the Premier and Foreign Minister cannot act without Cabinet concurrence.

They have complained bitterly in secret that these weekly reports to which they are entitled have been so vague and so out of date that they receive far fuller information from the newspaper. To this complaint, the Foreign Office officials reply, unofficially of course, that you really cannot trust such secrets of supreme importance to the cables, that many dominion politicians do not want to have their mouths rigidly shut, and that the interests of the empire, the fewer people who know something of the latter. This was typical of the old diplomacy, is, of course, a complete negation of the principle that the dominions are entitled to an equal voice in foreign policy. It is because this particular nettle has never been grasped with a strong hand.

Protected by Politics.

The thing that has protected the liquor criminal from the law is politics. Politics first, law enforcement a poor second has been the order. Bad whisky, with beer to help, has supplied the sinews of war for bad policies, and politics has returned the favor.

Take Prohibition Enforcement Out of Politics and Center Its Direction in Hands of President, Pinchot Urges

The law, but have served or are serving as collectors of the $6 or $7 a barrel graft money paid by brewers for immunity. This belief receives strong confirmation when a brewery is caught bribing State policemen (who were promptly both discharged from the force and prosecuted). Even stronger confirmation is found in the fact that high-power beer is manufactured and sold throughout the United States, while the Volstead law was passed by the National Congress. The leadership in this matter belongs of right to the National Government, and can only be exercised by it. It has, and it alone can employ powers granted to none of the states—powers without whose use the law cannot be successfully enforced.

Federal Regulations.

"The proposed isolation of the liquor laws come through bootleggers who obtain liquors or alcohol in large quantities. They can secure such quantities only through permission of the Federal authorities. No liquor can lawfully be manufactured except by Federal permission. No alcohol can be produced without a Federal permit. All whisky and alcohol in storage is solely in control of the United States. None can be released from bond, sold, transported or used in manufacture except by Federal permission. No brewery can operate without a permit from the United States. With this power to license and the right to act under these permits no State can interfere. The liquor problem is first of all a national matter, and as such cannot be met and solved unless the Federal Government does its full part.

Do Not Misunderstand Me.

"Lest what I have just said should be misunderstood, let me add that the State Police of Pennsylvania are doing an admirable piece of work. They have made the only effective fight for law enforcement ever made in the State. With less than 300 men they are required to cover nearly a thousand boroughs and cities, small towns and the open country. With liquor laws come through bootleggers who obtain liquors or alcohol in large quantities. They can secure such quantities only through permission of the Federal authorities. No liquor can lawfully be manufactured except by Federal permission. No alcohol can be produced without a Federal permit. All whisky and alcohol in storage is solely in control of the United States. None can be released from bond, sold, transported or used in manufacture except by Federal permission. No brewery can operate without a permit from the United States. With this power to license and the right to act under these permits no State can interfere. The liquor problem is first of all a national matter, and as such cannot be met and solved unless the Federal Government does its full part.

Do Not Misunderstand Me.

"I recognize the full responsibility of each State and of every municipality for doing its full share to defeat and drive out the law breakers. But I believe that a clear understanding of the relative powers and functions of State and nation is an indispensable condition of success. Without doubt this whole matter will come up for full discussion at the coming conference of the Governors with the President of the United States.

Plan New Coalition Cabinet.

Although Rothermere and Beaverbrook are reported to have agreed on Birkenhead as Premier, they appear at variance regarding the rest of the Cabinet when the present ministry is overthrown. Birkenhead, it is understood, plans to take Lloyd George into the Cabinet as Chancellor of the Exchequer, also Winston Churchill, thus constituting a new coalition, of Tory "die-hards" and Asquith Liberals, against labor.

The program is said to have been Rothermere's approval, but Lord Rothermere objects to Lloyd George strenuously and would rather not have Churchill.

During the 10 days the Rothermere press has toned down its strong pro-French campaign, which is explained in well-informed quarters as Rothermere's contribution toward meeting Birkenhead's views since the former Lord Chancellor is strongly opposed to the French Ruhr policy.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Lord Beaverbrook has bought the Pall Mall Gazette, which will be absorbed by the Evening Standard, according to an authoritative announcement made here. Lord Beaverbrook only last week purchased the Evening Standard from Sir Edward Hulton, as well as the Daily Sketch and the Sunday Herald.

Work of Present Director.

The present director, Maj. William G. Murdoch, is the first in the history of enforcement in Pennsylvania to whom I hear excellent reports, have given convincing evidence of their desire to use every power at their command in compelling respect for the Constitution and laws of the United States. Unfortunately, they are handicapped because the most elementary principles of good business management have been disregarded. The organization of the Government enforcement work, I refer, for example, to the unwise division of authority to the fact that both of them are compelled to do their work through agents of whose history and connections they have no knowledge and in whose selection they have no voice, and under rules and regulations framed at Washington, which often fail wholly to meet local conditions.

Under This System, Born and Bred.

"Under this system, born and bred in politics, it is commonly believed, and I share that belief, that certain agents of the Federal Department

not only wink at the violation of law breaking by the people of this nation in the United States.

"There is another reason why the President should take personal charge.

"Not only has the political power of the enforcement service had its seat in Washington, but it is notorious that disobedience to the Eighteenth Amendment has been flagrant in the Capitol city. Stories are innumerable of the active practice and encouragement of law breaking by agents of the Federal Department

not only wink at the violation of high in the Government of the United States.

"Perhaps the strongest encouragement to law breaking is the knowledge of the law breaker that the authorities are half-hearted about enforcement. You will, I think, find no such belief about my administration among the men who are breaking the liquor laws in Pennsylvania. Of one thing you may be sure—this is a fight to a finish.

"There will be no compromise with them.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLAT-FORM.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

An Old Soldier's Opinion.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I HAVE read with some surprise the letter in your issue of Oct. 11 written by N. H. Alexander, in which he scolds you for your editorial of Oct. 7 in which you give the good reasons "Why the Klan must go." I most certainly agree with you in your loyal and manly fight against mob law in the United States, and I most certainly agree with your stand that the country cannot endure half republic and half invisible empire.

I am a veteran of the G. A. R., having fought three years, from '62 to '65, for the preservation of the Union. I am still going strong for the Stars and Stripes. There is no room in this republic of ours for that emblem of the invisible empire. I don't suppose that we could be classed by members of this masked mob as "100 per cent American."

Mr. Alexander seems very much concerned about the Catholics, the Jews and the negroes. I will state here that I don't belong to either of the above classes. I am just a plain American. I thank God that I have sense enough to know that the Constitution of our country guarantees to every American citizen absolute religious liberty. There are a great many religious denominations in the United States. Personally I am willing to grant to every man the same liberty in this respect that I enjoy myself.

When these citizens of the invisible empire will take truly American view upon the subject, I have no doubt they will be willing to cast aside their cowardly mask and come out in the open like other loyal American citizens.

Personally, I take a hopeful view of the future of our beloved country. The old soldiers who fought from '61 to '65 for the preservation of the Union are growing very old. We are rapidly reaching the end of the trail. A few more years and the last member of the Grand Army of the Republic will have answered the last roll call. And as we near the end we are consoled by the thought that we leave on guard that younger loyal organization, the American Legion. So I have faith years after the old guard has past over, if we could get a message to America it would read something like this: "We have kept the faith and the Star-Spanned Banner still waves over the land of the free and the home of the brave." I have this faith in spite of the Klan, the I. W. W. and all other disloyal elements in our country. THOMAS PLEMAN.

A School Children's Airplane.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I NOTICE in today's Post-Dispatch that Mr. Rolla Wells thought the St. Louis people ought to take over the Lambert-St. Louis Air Field.

Don't you think the St. Louis and St. Louis County school children could buy and造 an airplane through your paper, as they did "Jim," the elephant, by making a donation of 10 cents and suggesting a name for the plane. I am inclosing 10 cents, and if the thought does not impress you, just keep it for some other good work.

EUGENE SCHMIDT,

The Fight on Walton.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
N. H. ALEXANDER, defender of the K. K. K. in today's publication, gets a good share of my sympathy.

Why does he worry over the impeachment that he believes Gov. Walton will have to abide by? I hardly believe the Governor is worried over that. The real worry with him is the welfare of the citizens of the United States of America. Equal rights and justice to all.

He calls Gov. Walton's fight the losing fight. Poor Mr. Alexander. I feel sorry for you! Many a losing fight is in reality a victory. Why? Because fighting for right and losing is victorious in so much that the fighter has the spunk and fearlessness to carry on although it may mean an official loss. Victory because such a fight does not stop to think of his personal loss, but only of the welfare of others. Yes, Gov. Walton may leave his office a "very rich man," as Alexander says, but not rich as far as money is concerned; instead, very rich in the possession of the good wishes and hopes of many, many people, the friendship of whom he has gained by his logical attitude and common American sense. Why are you afraid, Alexander, that the Jews, Catholics and negroes may rule? What harm do they do to you? Don't forget that Jesus himself was a Jew, advocating freedom, love and kindness to all.

AN EASTERN STAR.

Fire Prevention Suggestions.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
ON behalf of our committee I appreciate the editorial in your issue of Wednesday evening, Oct. 10, under the heading, "Fire Prevention Suggestions." We hope that this matter of a training school for firemen as well as the subject of adequate ordinance governing the construction and installation of oil-burning devices may be pushed to a successful conclusion, and will greatly appreciate any aid which your valued institution can give.

HAROLD M. HESS,
Chairman Fire Prevention Committee,
St. Louis Chamber of Commerce.

SILENCING THE GUNS.

Mr. Lloyd George was indulging in a bit of rhetoric when he declared that a moral alliance between the United States and Great Britain to make common cause against war would silence forever the guns of the world.

Such an alliance, however, has a considerable sponsorship. The votaries of Nordic pre-eminence advocate it with ardor, though not for peace but for conquest. Historians and publicists, depressed by the destruction and deadly prophecy of the World War, turned to an Anglo-American entente as the sole savior of civilization. Now, in the tumult of the malevolent and militaristic peace following the war, with Europe held for chaos, with Premiers willfully shutting their eyes to the facts and logic of history and reviving the policies and practices that have invariably culminated in tragedies, and with the agency created at Versailles to maintain peace a failure at worst, a disappointment at best. It is not unnatural that a statesman who, like Lloyd George, went through the inferno, is eager to grasp at any straw with which the world might pull itself out of its present de-spair.

Possibly an Anglo-American alliance might serve as such a straw in this emergency, but, even so, it would be only a straw, an opportunistic device. Such an alliance would fail, in the end, because it is fundamentally wrong. It is predicated on the balance-of-power principle and its efficacy would endure only so long as it possessed the power to impose its will, regardless of how just and honorable its will might be.

The world is not going to fashion its deportment according to an Anglo-Saxon pattern. Our institutions and ideals, however superior we think them, and however competently they have served the interests of the people, are not the institutions and ideals of all peoples. To the other peoples of the world their racial integrity and national identity are just as precious as ours are to us. The white man's burden, whether it be the jingo concept of an imperialistic poet or the fraternal noblesse oblige of democracy, is a temporary task. Soon or late the world wears of his guardian.

The United States and Great Britain are not the chosen nations to whom the keeping of the peace must be intrusted. The present League of Nations may collapse and disappear, but if the enduring structure of world peace is ever to be erected its foundation must be the principles embodied in the League covenant. In anything like permanent world peace all the nations must have a voice and the final judgments of such a parliament must be world judgments.

Jugt how many more world wars will have to be fought before the Poincarés of the Old World and the Senate irreconcilables of the new will perceive the folly and madness of their egotistic nationalism and join in enlightened international cooperation for peace can only be conjectured. In any event the salvation of the world is not a British job, or an American job, or a Teutonic job, or a Celtic job, or a Slav or Mongolian job. It is the job of them all. They must all have a part in silencing the guns.

There is but a mild sporting interest in the baseball bout between Tweedle-dum McGraw and Tweedle-dee Huggins.

FOR A REAL SUBWAY.

If the plan proposed by W. J. Holbrook before the American Society of Civil Engineers has been correctly reported, it does not appear to be very attractive. The first step, it is suggested, would be for the city to issue bonds sufficient to refund and assume the United Railways indebtedness. The need for this is not evident, and nothing is said as to squeezing out the water in the U. R. stock. If we are to have a subway, its financing should not be complicated with any side issue.

The proposition calls for open subways, in Olive street from Twelfth to Channing avenue, and in other downtown parts of the city. Open subways—long ugly gashes in the very heart of the city—is St. Louis prepared for this? Would Chicago, New York or any other city permit it? The short, partly open subway along Park avenue, New York, was built years ago. It could not be repeated.

We need a real subway, on the best modern lines. We cannot consider any plan that would involve radical and costly change in the future. It would be waste of time, money and labor.

Another good reason for taking to the air is the growing record of killings by ground traffic.

ON THE RIGHT ROAD.
(From the Detroit News.)

ROLLA STUDENTS SHOULD ACT.

The present police practice of arresting persons without warrant and docketing them as "held for the Federal authorities" is admittedly a violation of a State law. Nevertheless, the police will continue to violate the State law in this respect, according to Lieut. Vasey, "until advised to discontinue the practice by the properly constituted United States authorities."

Under any circumstances that would be a poor excuse for this indefensible lawless practice. As it happens, however, even this poor excuse cannot be offered. A properly constituted United States authority has already spoken on this very point. Judge Faris of the United States District Court has ruled that the police cannot set aside the 20-hour State law by marking such prisoners as "held for the Federal authorities." He is reported to have characterized such entry as a "subterfuge." It is also of record that the St. Louis Court of Appeals has rendered a similar opinion.

In the present situation the Rolla students whose arrest and detention have brought the practice sharply before the public seem to have an urgent public duty to perform. They should see to it that no other innocent persons shall suffer the humiliation of which they were the victims. If the officials charged with directing the policies of our police force will not voluntarily observe the laws they should be compelled to do so by law.

The courts are open to the Rolla students for personal redress and for the greater service of protecting the public from illegal police tyranny. They should act forthwith.

Cocksure predictions that Chancellor Stresemann would fall make his Reichstag victory a clear gain for the defeat of bedlam.

STATE DEPARTMENT SERENITY.

In his Brown University speech Secretary Hughes voiced objection to the thoughtless hurly-burly of our times. With the motor, the movie and the radio, with the "ever present and constantly expanding enterprises of the press," he said, this is the day of the "fleeting vision." Concentration, thoroughness, the quiet reflection that ripens the judgment, he continued, are more difficult than ever. "To the extent that the university merely produces the push, the hustle and the rapid give and take of life, to the extent that it fails to yield serenity and reflection, it sacrifices its great capacity for service in a tumultuous world."

There is a harsh contrast between the tumultuous world and the serenity of the cloister. But as to the ability of the cloister to think out the problems of the world, its failure is proverbial. It is the verdict of modern science that truth is more readily bearded by research and experience, by trial and success, by getting into the fray, than by abstract reasoning. Since the world upheaval events have disdained to wait upon leadership plunged in sheltered serenity. While "the native hue of resolution" in our serene State Department has been "sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought" the world has been going to pot. Washington's calm, no doubt, is needed in the hotbeds of pandemonium across the seas, but the way to put out a fire is not serenely to watch it burn.

Some think Harlem will win the world series, while others favor the Bronx.

A FRANCHISE BY INITIATIVE.

The Mayor is for steering his 100 per cent Republican administration clear of any responsibility in connection with the expected franchise under which the reorganized United Railways will operate. He, therefore, offers the suggestion that the voters, by initiative election, decide on the acceptability of the franchise to be presented. It is within the possibilities that a representative part of the public will demand such exclusive action, but until it does, the suggestion appears a bit premature.

Since the State Public Service Commission fixes rates and supervises public utility finance, the franchise is not the important instrument in local government that it used to be. Its contents will be largely concerned with routine and technical provisions. All subjects will be thoroughly aired and if aldermanic action is not satisfactory there remains the referendum as a final appeal. The ballot box is the refuge of the voter, but it cannot take the place of the deliberative assembly in discussion and investigation. The worst eventuality would be a plebiscite in which the public interest could be thwarted by apathy and a lack of popular knowledge of the issues.

BETTING HALF A MINUTE AGAINST ETERNITY.

JUST A MINUTE

THE OLD WORLD.

Mr. Antwerp thought time must have hung heavily upon the hands and they tried to do something with it.

The Alps are what the late Bob Burdett would have called a good competent range of mountains. They are not as rugged as our own Rockies, nor do they rise anywhere to such heights as some of our North American mountain attain; but they have the best known glaciers and snow-covered peaks in the world, and in the Alps you feel the charm of man's long and familiar acquaintance with them.

One is not at first sure whether the people of Innsbruck dress differently than any other Europeans one sees or if most of the population has just come from a dress rehearsal at the opera. It takes some time to realize that the man you see in a green coat and red vest, with a great feather in his hat and in doublet and hose, is doing no more than expressing the mountaineer's love of color and only differs in the variety of his plumage from everyone else.

We felt strangely out of the picture. Socrates thought some of going to the hotel and putting on the magenta debating gown he had bought in Paris, but he was afraid that would be a little too much for Innsbruck. The note here is something more subdued, despite its variety. You feel that the Austrians have been very poor and that they have gratified their love of pageantry more to satisfy their soul hunger than to impress the tourist. We will demand to respect this, and when we saw an old mountaineer whose waistcoat was made of stonewool, and that all was not indeed made of stonewool, and that all was not indeed made of stonewool.

Socrates said after hearing the side of this story told in Austria that if we had not been really grateful for the unity of our own states we ought to be.

Land is no better or more beautiful over than it is with us, and if we were divided into a half dozen little nations we would be fighting about it like as not just as they do in Europe," he said.

And so we would.

"What kind of coal do you wish, ma'am?"

"Dear me, I am so inexperienced in such things. Are there several kinds?"

"Oh, yes; we have egg coal, chestnut—"

"I think I'll take the egg coal. We have eggs oftener than we have chestnuts."—Boston transcript.

OH, CARRY ME BACK!

Oh, carry me back to the long, long ago, when we trusted Old Dobbin, so faithful and slow. He was lazy but steady, as sure as the fates, he wasn't compelled to wear license plates. And though fleetness and speed sometimes he might lack, he took us to town and then brought us back. If the roads were all muddy and slick from the rains, we never would stop to put on the chains, and when we were driving the old horse about, he never was known to have a blowout. No tack ever punctured his stout inner tubes, as we jogged along behind him like green country Reubis; and his spark plugs never were known to go wrong, as each cylinder hit as we jogged along. His clutch never slipped and there wasn't a hitch, and he never was known to slide off in a ditch. His bearings they never were known to get loose, and his battery always had plenty of juice. He always was ready from nose to flank, and we never stopped then to put gas in his tank. He could travel along in the darkness of night without having to wear a pekky tail light. And no cop ever pinched us and then had us fined because he lacked license plates in front and behind. Yes, I long for the days when we had but few cares, before everything went to pay for repairs and before everybody had stopped on the gas and we never could find the error in it, and try to clean it out. As that process goes on it will bring us great surviving religions closer together, and be so doing make for toleration and very gradually for peace on earth.

"Like Ulysses, we went through hell," an Austrian said to us. "Not even in Russia perhaps, was the level of civilization and all its blessings so low as it got in Austria. We are doing better now. If Fortune has been unkind, the world has been kind. We are beginning to do business again, we dare hope for sustenance and clothing, and if Central Europe can keep out of war for a few years we may be able to get up our feet."

Innsbruck is like Ouray, Colorado. The mountains are about the same, great sprawling way, the air is crisp and invigorating, and the city itself is huddled down in the hollow. Lying in bed on one's first night here one hears every hour of the clock struck not all over town merely, but on the hillsides as well. They love clocks, and their ingenuity at making them is so celebrated that crowds gather in the squares to see some of the clocks perform. We may see one of these which give a three-story entertainment. On one level there was a tournament among knights; on another a folk dance was given by the mannikins which adorn these timepieces. This one made its own music, and when the jousting and dancing were over a rooster came out and flopped his wings, growling lustily.

The MIRROR OF PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading public newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

AIRCRAFT ARMAMENT COMPETITION.

From the Houston Post:
It is apparent that there is need for something to halt the race in airplane construction going on in Europe, if there is not to be a repetition of the conditions that surrounded the race in naval construction several years ago. The competition in naval armament put a tremendous burden of taxation on the people of Europe, and became one of the direct causes of the great war. Naval competition, happily, has passed.

One is not at first sure whether the people of Innsbruck dress differently than any other Europeans one sees or if most of the population has just come from a dress rehearsal at the opera. It takes some time to realize that the man you see in a green coat and red vest, with a great feather in his hat and in doublet and hose, is doing no more than expressing the mountaineer's love of color and only differs in the variety of his plumage from everyone else.

We felt strangely out of the picture. And so we would.

The Conning Tower

If They Had Written It.
A. E. Housman.
Cherry trees are laden
With berries ruby red,
With many a rose-tipped maiden
In a lonely bed.

Plums there be plenty,
And apples acid-sweet,
With many a lad of twenty Wagging a starless street.

Grapes are big and bursting,
But plumbains, fair and gay,
Which the world is thirsting,
Are not for us today.

Sill Cus's challenge arrived we about to issue one ourself, we find that failing to meet wouldn't prove anything. "Let Stein's admirers step out tell us just what that passage in her works attempts to express.
One copy of "General Play" hereby is offered for the fifty-word explanation of that passage into simple English. Does she do it? as M. P. phrases it in a medium not wholly understanding of some sort".
Despite the fact that to Stein is an utter bunk, we have a Sisyphus of a time to put one of our favorite "Kubla Khan" into plain English. It never fails to move us to thrill us, but what it means we don't know.

Regarding "Utter Bunk."

I will call anything "bunk"
I do not understand, especially if it is a novel I am concerned. Mind
I mean stories and parables not the entire book.

The reason behind the writer's pen will remain foreign to me at least want to know the meaning I come across.

The novelist is a sincere person will not live 2000 years ago but he will not dwell among writers and nightingales when all he sees is garbage cans and pushers. Of course, I am mentioning extremes, but it does seem as if one who would want to tell you about referring to spiders, is merely trying to be erudite, as a way of describing the anguish is entirely unnecessary.

Most of the poetry of our younger is insincere in the same way. I run across a stanza or a whole dedicated to Beauty and Venus and Adonis, and all the other Roses. I feel quite sure that the office writer is the one who laid a railroad across the plains. Hardly a hundred words of speech are assigned to him in the whole book and yet the character stands out clear
and complete.

But it is not the freedom from the burden of length which has animated Miss Cather's new book into magnificence. A more glorious weight has been removed from the shoulders of the novelist. In "One of Ours" Miss Cather set herself the task of sustaining a moral. Now there are no interfering external judgments. The finest figure in the book is Marian Forrester, and there is ample opportunity in this story of a passionate woman for her friend, the author, to moralize and deplore. Such temptations are rigorously resisted. At no point are we asked to applaud or denounce.
The reader is reduced to his proper function of being allowed to watch and observe and keep his mouth shut.

Mrs. Edward C. Simmons of 21 Westmoreland place has returned from her country home in Dublin, N. H.
She has entered her young daughter, Miss Gertrude, in Miss
Porter's School in Farmington,
Conn., and her son, Daniel, in St.
Paul's Preparatory School. Mrs.
Theron E. Catlin and her family have also returned from Dublin
while Mrs. Daniel Catlin Sr. is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Frederick
Winthrop Allen on Long Island, N.Y., before coming to St. Louis.

Mrs. Daniel K. Catlin of 41 Westmoreland place has returned home from her country home in Dublin, N. H. She has entered her young daughter, Miss Gertrude, in Miss
Porter's School in Farmington,
Conn., and her son, Daniel, in St.
Paul's Preparatory School. Mrs.
Theron E. Catlin and her family
have also returned from Dublin
while Mrs. Daniel Catlin Sr. is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Frederick
Winthrop Allen on Long Island, N.Y., before coming to St. Louis.

And yet Miss Cather does not play the rather chilling role of the perfect neutral who coldly creates characters in some way flawed and marred and then remains indifferent to what may be thought of them once they have moved beyond her finger tips. Marian Forrester is insulated against the potential harshness of the reader by sympathy, a sympathy practically never directly expressed but implied and indicated by the care and understanding with which the figure is drawn.

And there is a shrewd device in the telling. Often Miss Cather allows us to see Marian Forrester through the eyes of a young man to whom she remains glamourous to the end, even though she crumples again and again his idealistic conception.

"He came to be," writes Miss Cather, "very glad that he had known her and that she had had a hand in breaking him in to life. He has known pretty women and clever ones since then—but never one like her as she was in her best days. His eyes, when they laughed for a moment into one another, seemed to promise with delight that he was not found in life. I know where it is; they seemed to say, 'I could have you.' He would like to call up the shade of the young Mrs. Forrester and the Witch of Endor called up Samuel, and challenge it, demand the secret of that ardor; ask her whether she had really found some ever-blooming, ever-burning, ever-piercing joy, or whether it was all just a fine play-acting. Probably she had found no more than another; but she had always the power of suggesting things much lovelier than herself, as the perfume of a single flower may call up the whole sweetness of spring."

Certainly nobody has ever succeeded so admirably in establishing a character with a single stroke as has Miss Cather in presenting us to Frank Ellinger, "a man who good humoredly bowed to the inevitable or to the almost inevitable."

Miss Cather has put the proper ingredients into her novel and has shaken them until they foam and bubble.

It Seems to Me

TO WED IN NEW YORK

INFORMAL NOTICE OF TWO ENGAGEMENTS

Miss Mabel Wendover and Miss Josephine Fritsch to Be Married Soon.

DISPENSING with formal announcements parties, two brides-to-be are telling their friends informally of their engagements and approaching weddings.
Miss Mabel Wendover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Wendover, who recently took possession of their new home at 71 St.
Andrew's road, Glen Echo Park, is to be married Saturday, Oct.
27, to William Bond Clabaugh of Kansas City, Mo., formerly of St. Louis, son of Mr. and Mrs.
William Harvey Clabaugh of 5501
Waterman avenue. Miss Wendover has chosen Nov. 3 as the date of her wedding to Edward Livingston McKendree of New York. The ceremonies is to be performed at 4:30 o'clock at Hotel Plaza, and will be followed by small reception which members of out-of-town guests will attend. Among them are Mr. and
Mrs. Albert Webb of Chicago; Miss
Elinor Engel and Mr. and Mrs.
Lewis P. Jackson, all of St. Louis, and the bride's family. Miss Dorothy Kammerer has chosen Nov. 3 as the date of her wedding to Edward Livingston McKendree of New York. The ceremonies is to be performed at 4:30 o'clock at Hotel Plaza, and will be followed by small reception which
members of out-of-town guests will attend. Among them are Mr. and
Mrs. Albert Webb of Chicago; Miss
Elinor Engel and Mr. and Mrs.
Lewis P. Jackson, all of St. Louis, and the bride's family.

The story is centralized upon a single house and a small group of people, but no set frame can be placed around a perfect miniature.
The particular, when firmly drawn casts its shadows widely. To know Capt. Forrester and Marian Forrester is to have an understanding of an age and a class in America.
This is a novel of the early days of America's railroad aristocracy. Capt.
Forrester is one of those who laid a railroad across the plains. Hardly a hundred words of speech are assigned to him in the whole book and
yet the character stands out clear
and complete.

The wedding is to take place the

SUPREME COUNCIL OF SOUTHERN 33RD DEGREE MASON'S MEETING

Biennial Session Begins at Washington—Popular Education Plans to Be Discussed.
 by the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The biennial session of the Supreme Council of the 33rd Degree Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite, Southern jurisdiction, opened yesterday with a memorial service in honor of Albert Pike, former sovereign grand master. Formal meetings will begin today with the reading of the allocation by John H. Cowles, Louisville, Ky., grand commander.

Important business scheduled for the week's meetings includes the election of honorary thirty-third degree Masons for the Southern jurisdiction; and it is expected that the Supreme Council will give attention to plans for an expansion of Masonic effort on popular education.

The council contends that prevailing illiteracy and lawlessness constitute "a great menace to republican institutions and that it is the duty of all good citizens to promote popular education."

VICTIMS WERE GOING HOME FROM CHURCH

Driver Evidently Mistook Warning Signal of Machine Ahead as Sign That Track Was Clear.

By the Associated Press.

FAIRFIELD, Ind., Oct. 15.—Nine persons were killed and one seriously hurt yesterday morning when a Big Four passenger train, Cincinnati to Chicago, struck an automobile at a grade crossing near here.

J. W. Means, 70.

Mrs. W. Means, 65.

Byron Means, 14, their son.

Mrs. Roy Brinton, 30, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Means.

Mrs. Jessie McGuire, 35, sister-in-law of Mrs. Means.

Mary Brinton, daughter of Mrs. Brinton.

Miss Maida Gaither, 22, sister of Mrs. McGuire.

Goldie Gaither, 18, sister of Mrs. McGuire.

Marjorie Pearl McGuire, 7, daughter of Mrs. McGuire.

All resided in London, Ind.

Roy Brinton was the only occupant of the car who escaped death. He jumped before the train hit the car, and was seriously injured. Pearl Brinton died at an Indianapolis hospital several hours after the accident.

The victims were en route to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Means of London, from Brookfield, near here, where they had attended church services.

Lora House, driving an automobile in front of the machine struck, which was driven by Means, had cleared the track and saw the train coming. He turned and motioned for Means to stop, but Means apparently interpreted his signal that the way was clear.

Samuel James of Brookfield, who saw the accident, said that the heavily loaded machine reached the track and then came to a stop.

What a Pity

To hide the teeth's greater beauty with a dingy film

Countless people still leave film-coats on their teeth. Millions of others have found a way to combat them.

That is why so many teeth are cloudy, while other teeth now glisten.

Here is a ten-day test which will bring a revelation to you. Make it now, for the sake of whiter, cleaner, safer teeth.

Combat that film

Film is that viscous coat you feel. Much of it clings and stays after ordinary brushing. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats. And those coats hide the luster of the teeth.

Many careful tests proved these methods effective. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Leading dentists everywhere began to advise it. Now that method has brought a new dental era to millions of homes the world over.

Digests the starch

Starch deposits on teeth, may also ferment and form acids. Pepsodent multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva, put there to protect the enamel, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. So tooth troubles became almost universal.

After Bullet Joe Got Through With Them, the Giants Appeared to Be All Shot to Pieces

Three Successive Hits Tie Score for Giants After Ruth Hits Home Run in First Frame

Majority of Crowd at Sixth World's Series Contest for American League Club Despite Fact Contest Is Played at the Polo Grounds.

By E. L. MOCKLER,
The Post-Dispatch's New York Representative.

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Considering the results of the last two games and the weather with its threat of rain, the attendance at the sixth world series contest today was surprisingly big. The bleachers were packed long before 1 o'clock, and the paid attendance at 2 o'clock was estimated between 32,000 and 35,000.

It rained heavily during the early morning, but by game time, evidence of it had disappeared. The base lines were a little damp, but the grass covered parts of the field had not been effected.

Ruth Hits Home Run.

A majority of the spectators were with the Yanks, even on this supposed hostile field. This was indicated clearly with the reception given to Dugan, the leading hero of yesterday's hitting orgy. After Witt sent an easy pop fly to Frisch, Dugan sent a sharp grounder to Frisch, with the usual result. With Ruth up, Umpire O'Day stopped the game to admonish the Yankee bench warners. After a bat of wits with Neft which went to a count of 3 and 2, he got one to his liking and drove a liner into the right field stands for a home run. The run was painful to McGraw because Neft had grooved what would have been a third strike, just as Ruth, at the beginning of the delivery, stepped out of the batters box. Bancroft gave O'Day an argument as to the validity of the pitch, but O'Day decided against him. It was on the next pitched ball that Ruth hit his third home of the series. Bob Meusel, with the count 3 and 2, was called out on strikes.

Groh struck out, after Bancroft had lifted a high fly, which Witt caught behind second. Frisch hit a hard grounder that bounded off Pennock's mitt past Scott for a single. Groh pulling up at second, with both runners in motion, Young singled to center. Groh scoring, out. Frisch was cut down at third on Witt's final throw to Dugan. Irish Meusel struck out to end the inning.

Frisch beat out a perfect bunt down the first base line, in the Giant fourth. Pennock failed to field the ball or cover first and Pipp ran in and left the base uncovered. Frisch got to second when Young's teasing bounces got to Ward, too late to permit a play at second. Irish Meusel could not help going out on a fly to Witt, but Cunningham brought Frisch home with a hard single off the right field wall. Kelly ended the inning with a grounder to Ward.

Ward went out in orthodox fashion in the Yanks' fifth, but Frisch and Kelly both had to make star plays to get Schang. Frisch made a marvelous stop of the catcher's grounder, going on his knees as he got the ball. Then Kelly had to reach to his limit to get Frisch's wide throw with one hand. Frisch also made a fine stop of Scott's grounder.

Dugan Robbed of Hit.

The wonderful Frisch robbed Dugan of a two-base hit when he ran to deep right field and made a seemingly impossible catch. Ruth got a base on balls, O'Day getting a strenuous razzing from the Giant followers who thought the fourth ball should have been a strike, though it looked to be well inside. On a hit and run play, Ruth got second, while Bancroft was throwing out Bob Meusel. Kelly picked Banny's throw out of the dirt to retire Pipp.

Snyder Gets Home Run.

Snyder opened the Giants' fifth inning with his first hit of the series, a drive into the left field stands for a home run. Pennock had no trouble with the next three. Neft struck out, and Bancroft was thrown out by Scott, while Ruth had little trouble getting under Groh's fly.

Neft had no trouble with the three Yanks who faced him in the sixth. Pennock struck out, Witt tapped to the pitcher and Dugan to Groh.

Neft made a pretty play of Scott's bunt down the left field foul

ZEV MAKES FAST TIME IN LONG WORKOUT, BUT TIRES NEAR THE FINISH

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Zev, Kentucky Derby winner and America's candidate in the $100,000 international match race with Papryrus next Saturday, was out on Belmont track bright and early yesterday and for the first time since his training for the race began he was sent around the full distance of the coming contest, a mile and a half. He was clocked in 2:37 3-5, showing a spindid burst of speed at the start but trailing off on the last furlongs.

Papryrus, the English colt, did little more than a practice gallop, but he showed none of the lameness that was apparent when he finished a recent workout. He appeared in good condition.

Zev's time was about two seconds faster than that of his rival on Saturday but many in the crowd of 200 persons who were on hand despite the early hour, declared he appeared more tired at the end of the run than did the English Derby winner.

BROWN UNIVERSITY TO BUILD ATHLETIC FIELD

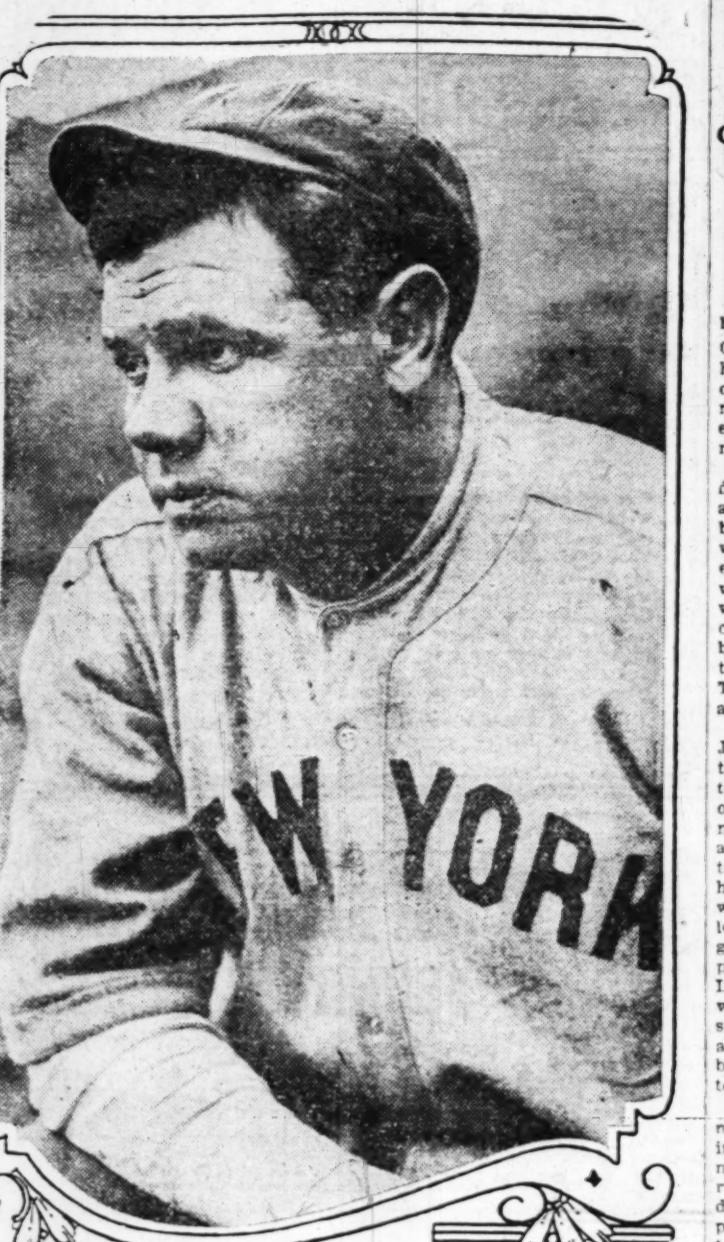

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PROVIDENCE, Oct. 15.—Paul C. De Wolf, the city formerly of Newark, announced that Brown University would begin the construction of a new athletic field this fall to replace Andrews Field, opened 20 years ago and for the last few years altogether too small to accommodate the number of undergraduates interested in outdoor sports. W. A. Walsh, high school graduate of Newark and a member of the Brown class of 1905, is chairman of the special committee appointed by the Brown Corporation to carry on plans for the field.

The new field will be owned and operated by the university just south of the present Andrews Field. In the tract are 15 acres, as against six at Andrews Field, and the proposed layout includes a large baseball diamond, three auxiliary diamonds, five football gridirons and a 220-yard straightaway running track.

Provision has likewise been made to De Wolf's committee for the erection of a training house. The base ball stands for the varsity diamond will seat 4,000 to start with.

MISS GERTRUDE EDERE SETS ANOTHER RECORD

By the Associated Press.

HONOLULU, Oct. 15.—Miss Gertrude Ederle, aquatic star of the New York Yacht and Swimming Association, shattered another record here Saturday when she stroked the 400-meter free-style event in 56 minutes, 54.25 seconds in the A. A. U. water meet. Previously she had hung up new records for the 100-meter free-style, 50 meters, 200-meter and 400-meter events.

The previous American record for the 400-meter free-style distance was made by Miss Ederle in 1922, and was six minutes, one-fifth of a second.

Dauphin Wins Paris Race.

PARIS, Oct. 15.—Count Jefferson D. Colnutt, of the United States, and French jockey, Vatard, in the saddle, today won the Municipal Council stakes at Longchamps. The race ushered in the winter racing season in France.

Character makes the cigar—makes El Producto distinctive in its taste, yet uniformly mild and enjoyable. And El Producto is as well known for uniformity of character as it is for its distinctiveness. Most men who once try El Producto, swear by it.

McGraw's Infield Great Under Fire, Matty Points Out

Quartet Faltered Only Once, Despite Terrific Bombardment of Last Two Days.

By Christy Mathewson.

(Copyright, 1923.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The bad beatings the Yankees handed the Giants on Saturday and yesterday have filled Huggins' men with the old confidence and they're playing now with more dash than they have ever shown before against McGraw's men.

That confidence is often the only difference between a smart ball club and one that looks dumb. When a ball club is scared and timid, it won't take many chances and generally the chances it does take go wrong. When that happens the whole team looks like a prize ivory collection. Give the same team a break or two and a lot of hits and the old confidence gets into them. Then they start trying for everything and they look foxy again.

Though the day was too sunny and bright to be just right for Joe Bush's speed he would have scored a clean shut-out if he had been able to fool Emile Meusel. Emil cracked out a triple and two singles and scored the only National League run. His brother, Bob, was also slapping the pill on the nose, and though Jim Donahue helped himself to four hits including a home run, who all said it was a Muses game to watch.

When the game was over, play the Star-Spangled Banner the bleachers was packed with the biggest crowd that ever stayed away from church to go to a ball game. Speaking about the Star-Spangled Banner I have noticed that every time the band gets through playing it, practically everybody claps their hands. It begins to look like this song would be one of the outstanding hits of the season.

They Had a Hot Time.

Two features of the crowd was very laughable. One was that the most of them brought their overcoats and the other was that probably 25 per cent of the people that came did not have to come.

Before the game several players gathered around the handsome uniforms along behind until the 1st inning and then going out after the runs that were scored. Bush was evidently afraid that the Giants might pull just such a stunt as that on him today and he was working hard right up to the final out. His game was a great world's series effort.

Right here I want to toss a little

praise at the Giant infield. That great inner wall of McGraw's defense cracked yesterday for the first time during the series when Kelly and Frisch both messed up plays that might have cut off some runs.

From Mr. Bentley's showing they did not seem to be much reason for

Mr. McGraw having started him across that everybody else had pitched the day before. Or maybe the Little Napoleon wanted to show the fans that they sometimes best not be given to them any goat balls to hit at.

Right here I want to toss a little

praise at the Giant infield. That great inner wall of McGraw's defense cracked yesterday for the first time during the series when Kelly and Frisch both messed up plays that might have cut off some runs.

Professional Football Teams Play to a Scoreless Tie; Rain Holds Down Crowd to About 600

Wet Field Makes Open Style of Play Impossible and St. Louis and Hammond Elevens Rely Principally on Safety First Plays—Eber Simpson's Forward Passes Are a Feature.

St. Louis' latest sport child, professional football, proved to be a sturdy youngster yesterday when it successfully weathered the onslaught of the elements and the power of the Hammond (Ind.) football eleven. Ollie Krause's all-star professional team held the Hammond machine to a scoreless tie. The promoters went through with the contest despite the fact that fewer than 600 gridiron followers were present.

The contest was delayed for about 10 minutes. During the first 10 minutes of delay the word was passed that the teams were awaiting the arrival of Mayor Kiel, who was scheduled to officially see the ball in play, but when the Mayor strode upon the field the Hammond players were still grouped in one corner of the field and appeared to be counting the crowd. Several confidences were held and the play was finally started.

The field was slippery and water-soaked, a condition which made the accepted style of professional football and open play impossible. Both teams played straight and safe football during the first three quarters of the game and the field generals did not open up with the spectacular brand of play until the fourth quarter, when both leaders apparently took long chances on looping forward passes. The players during this period were waiting for the lucky break which would give an advantage to either eleven. The remainder of the game was largely a punting duel between Eber Simpson of St. Louis and Hess and Larson for Hammond. Simpson outkicked his rivals.

Visitors Miss Drop Kick. Hammond adopted a drop kick from the 35-yard line after both Simpson and Casey had bobbled the ball. The 10-yard line. This decision was a correct one, in view of the changed ruling in regard to a player on the kicking side touching the ball within the 10-yard line. Formerly the result would be a touchback and the oval would have been brought out to the 20-yard mark.

Hammond immediately kicked out of danger and Seigfried, King and Casey brought the oval back to the 22-yard line by several short line gains. The last quarter was replete with long-shot plays. Eber Simpson hurled several long passes to his ends, but the Hammond defense managed to break up the tosses before completion. A 15-yard penalty for holding came at a critical time, just as the locals were making a steady advance. Immediately after this play Hanke recovered an attempted punt by Simpson which Rydzewski blocked. Sullivan then made a rapid run of 20 yards around the St. Louis end and Cearns added 10 more on a tackle play. The referee's whistle sounding the end of the game stopped the Hammond advance.

In the closing minutes of the third quarter Simpson started an aerial attack which brought the small crowd to its feet. A long pass bounded out of Meese's arms, but Casey grabbed it out of the air and raced to the visitors' 22-yard line. King, the former Harvard star, failed in his attempt to send a drop between the uprights, the ball falling short. The pigskin rolled around

WRAY'S COLUMN

The Master Mind Slipping.

As the world's series unfolds we note with deep concern that McGraw's system is out of order. It needs a tonic of some kind. We have expected the roly-poly Napoleon to wig-wag his deep stuff from the bench to the field with bewildering sureness. But at this writing the only deep stuff shown by the Giants has been the two winning home runs committed by Casey Stengel.

We are beginning to suspect that the genius of McGraw may have been a trifling steamed up. As the series progresses it becomes more apparent that McGraw can't outguess two or three home runs per game, that he can't outguess a no-hit pitcher, that he can't outguess a ball club on a hitting streak and that he can't general an error by one of his own side.

In fact, the whole theory of a one-man invincibility is beginning to totter. Who knows, perhaps McGraw will be soon back be the other with more or less serious failures.

If he wins this world's series he will be batting only .500; and if he loses, his percentage of world's championships annexed will be .375 or three victories and five defeats.

Which leads one to believe the only miracle about a Miracle Manager is about three air-tight pitchers on his staff.

Call 'Em Cubs. WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY picked a great year in which to dub the varsity football team the "Bears." We hope they bear up under it.

At present writing the animals need a little teasing.

When Drake, Ames and Missouri meet Washington, we take it there will be trouble brain for the Bears.

The New York Dynasty.

THE million dollar gate will help perpetuate the New York baseball dynasty. Already each club's portion of the receipts amounts to $200,000 and this will be augmented by about $100,000 more.

This plum, plus the enormous profits taken from New York City fans during the regular season, will make each New York club's annual profits worth more than a majority of the other clubs' entire plants, franchise and players combined.

This condition is now in its third

Emil Meusel Seemed to Be the Only Bush Whacker in the Entire Giant Bunch Yesterday

Emil Meusel Spoiled No-Hit Game and New Record for Joe Bush

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—A no-hit game in a world's series still is the dream of all pitchers. Emil Meusel alone stood in the stadium yesterday. If Joe had been able to shackle Meusel as he did the other Giants a dream would have come true.

Meusel made the only three hits which Bush allowed.

On Oct. 10, 1916, Ed Reubush of the Chicago Cubs hit a White Sox to one in a world's series game. In the same year and on succeeding days Walsh of the White Sox held the Cubs and Mordecai Brown of the Cubs held the White Sox to two hits.

There were only two three hit games on record in the world's series up to the one pitched by Bush yesterday.

In 1919 Jim Ring and Ned Eller of the Cincinnati Reds held the White Sox to three hits in that tainted series.

BERT NIEHOFF MAY GET CHANCE'S JOB AT BOSTON

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 15.—BERT Niehoff of Los Angeles, Cal., for the past two seasons manager of the Mobile club, may succeed Frank Chance as the manager of the Boston Red Sox. Reports reaching this city are to the effect that he is being considered as a candidate for the job.

In two years Niehoff has won one pennant and finished a close second in the Southern Association. It is believed that there is some significance in the recent deal whereby Pitcher "Lefty" Fuhr, Outfielder Dan Williams and Catcher John Hoving stars of the league, have been sold to Boston.

Niehoff has shown himself a capable leader, he would be much easier to handle than Chance. It will be a big opportunity for Niehoff and he should be willing to accept any conditions to get this chance.

Decision on Changed Rule.

A dispute arose as to the disposition of the ball when Referee Gould placed the oval in play on the Hammond 10-yard line. This decision was a correct one, in view of the changed ruling in regard to a player on the kicking side touching the ball within the 10-yard line. Formerly the result would be a touchback and the oval would have been brought out to the 20-yard mark.

Hammond immediately kicked out of danger and Seigfried, King and Casey brought the oval back to the 22-yard line by several short line gains. The last quarter was replete with long-shot plays. Eber Simpson hurled several long passes to his ends, but the Hammond defense managed to break up the tosses before completion. A 15-yard penalty for holding came at a critical time, just as the locals were making a steady advance. Immediately after this play Hanke recovered an attempted punt by Simpson which Rydzewski blocked. Sullivan then made a rapid run of 20 yards around the St. Louis end and Cearns added 10 more on a tackle play.

The referee's whistle sounding the end of the game stopped the Hammond advance.

Decision on Changed Rule.

After the Scullins and Millers had battled without a score in the first half, Elmer Schwarz put the U. S. F. A. finalists of a year ago ahead shortly after the second half opened. However, Odeleman, who was back in goal for the Scullins, was joined by Jack Altmeyer just one into the net, tying the score. During the mixup in front of the Scullins' upright, a foul was committed and the Millers awarded a penalty. McHenry made good on the shot and his team was up. "Hap" Marre added another to the total before the contest ended.

The Millers played without Rube Capo, but this did not seem a handicap. The only substitution for the Millers was Hayes in place of Slattery. The Scullins played poorly.

In the closing game the elevens batted without a score during the opening period. Two minutes after the change of ends, Harris, the former West Frankfort star, sent through a long shot for the first point of the game and the prettiest goal of the day. Joe McCarthy tallied the other.

Cup Games Next Sunday.

Pegler, the Englishman, who was scheduled to make his first appearance with the Vespers, did not get into the game. Scott and Brannon were the only players substituted by Manager McCarthy.

Next Sunday the first U. S. F. A. cup games are scheduled to be played. The Vespers and Ben Millers are scheduled to battle here, while the Hoovers go to West Frankfort for a contest with the elevens of that city. The Scullins drew a bye in the first round.

McElhenney Is Winner.

E. L. McElhenney and A. Stine captured first and second places in the catchers' competition Saturday night. McElhenney won with a score of 637. Stine had 629. McElhenney got games of 203, 210 and 224, while Stine's totals were 223, 190 and 216. Mike Cassin was third with 606; W. Deed, fourth, 582; Sid Wilson and Harry Deen tied for fifth with 582. Twenty-two bowlers competed.

The race runs to form, should not take a great deal of patching to beat the Reds and the Pirates again.

Walkenford's Goal-Tending Is Feature of Soccer League Double-Header.

The Ben Millers and Vespers went to a tie for first place in the St. Louis Soccer League by winning yesterday's double-header at High School Field. The Millers, tailenders of a year ago, showed surprisingly well and downed the Scullins, 3 goals to 1, while the Vespers, champions of a year ago, won from the Hoovers, 2 to 0. A crowd estimated at 2500 witnessed the double-header.

Gridgraph Electrical Display Board Installed at Francis Field Show Every Detail of Contests — Team Plays at Oklahoma Next Saturday.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 15.—Today's game between the Baltimore American Association, was postponed on account of rain. On passing over the field, the team will play here tomorrow, weather permitting.

The arrangement is practically the same as that in use for some years in Belgium to photograph the finishes of horse races, and which is likely to be adopted at French race tracks next season.

A camera is set just over the finish line about three feet from the ground and a string is stretched out across the track about the same height, and three feet from the actual finish. The string, when being broken, automatically releases the kodak, which snaps the runners just as they cross the line. The negatives are developed in two minutes.

Similar machines are in operation at practically all the Big Ten schools and Missouri and Grinnell have them also. Those who have seen them in operation say they furnish every thrill of the game, without such disagreeable accompaniments as rain or cold.

The plays are wired in directly from the field at Oklahoma. An operator at the grid-graph receives the message and manipulates the machine while another operator is present to announce the plays.

Plays Shown in Detail.

The machine pictures the game as completely as if one actually witnessed it. It shows who makes the kickoff, who receives it, how far it is returned and who makes the tackle. On passing over the field, the team will play here tomorrow, weather permitting.

The local team has won two games out of three played and if they win tomorrow they will go to Baltimore with a big advantage.

Should Baltimore win, the Orioles will go back to their own diamond with an even standing and perhaps be able to wage a better battle at home.

Jimmy Zinn, Kansas City pitcher, was the hero of yesterday's game, which ended in a 7-to-1 victory for the locals. Of the 23 batters who faced him only one reached first.

Porter got a two-bagger and reached home. Zinn was the best pitcher of the game.

George Rider, director of athletics at Washington, said that the purpose of installing the machine was to maintain and increase interest in the varsity team.

SHORT COVERING FACTOR IN RISE OF INDUSTRIALS

Gains of 1 to 2 Points Shown

Firm.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The Evening
Post in its copyrighted financial review says:

"Firmness was the dominant note in the markets today. Strength in stocks made its appearance after about a quarter hour of indecision and was maintained on a good volume of trading throughout the afternoon. Prices fell away, but prices had not even improved slightly in the afternoon. It appeared that the placing of some buying orders prompted short covering in most of the industrial favorites."

"Except for Northern and Western railroads, which lagged to new lows for the year, the foreign exchanges were firm. Sterling recovered 3-8 of a cent at $4.53% with much less activity being paid to the ridiculous overdrawn stories of possible war between France and Germany.
This recovery occurred, furthermore, despite the continued pressure of bills against cotton exports. French francs meanwhile ran up six points to 613¢ cents and Belgian francs and Italian lire made small gains."

The market quotations, which is nominal, were unchanged, although the latest increase in the Reichsbank's circulation is measured in the tens of quadrillions. Lower rates prevailed in the South American market.

"Pronounced strength in cotton may have affected speculative sentiment somewhat. In any event this market was quite active and strong the cold weather which the weather forecasters predicted for weeks in the Southwest having turned late something like a flood. Not only was this rain itself a serious matter for the crop, but the cold wave which had been prophesied lingered to the westward while systems of the Gulf stream were weak on the Texas coast. Under the circumstances traders bought freely and the December future gained 73 points at a late price of 29.35 cents.

On the other hand, cotton, for the most part, was still off, as the hand was down 3-8 of a cent of 469,000 bushels for the Canadian crop having a dispiriting influence. December futures were off 1.07% and a partial recovery was off 3-8 of a cent on the day at $1.05.

TURPENTINE PRODUCTION AND THE STATISTICAL POSITION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Production of turpentine from crude gum for the Production from crude gum was lowered by 1,000,000 gallons and those and those or resin representing barrels by 1,000,000 barrels.

The figures were based on the statistical report of the Bureau of Turpentine stocks on March 31 according to the estimates showed an increase of 1,000,000 gallons over the previous year, while stocks at wood

By A LADY OF THE ENGLISH COURT.

II.

A NEW King changes the whole character of a court. In Queen Victoria's reign, the English court was the most exclusive and difficult to get into in the world. King Edward changed all that. Instead of mere birth, to become "someone" at his courts, a man or woman was obliged to have such personality, wit and charm, even if it was original, and above all a great deal of money.

All the friends who had stood by him in the needy years when he was being kept short by his old mother were remembered, and South African and American millionaires, Jewish bankers, exiled monarchs, great artists, actresses, beautiful women and musicians jostled one another up the great marble staircase of Buckingham Palace, which leads to the throne room, on the nights of the great receptions.

When George came to the throne, one of the most brilliant figures of this Edwardian court remarked to me, "This is going to be a nursery regime." It was so. All the haughty, rather dowdy, exclusive, blue-blooded aristocrats of Victoria's prime came back, the newcomers were shut out, and for some years, the pendulum swung back. But "Newly Rich" Came Back.

It did not last. Even before the leveling war, which completed that ruin of the great landed fortunes that had been going on for some time, the court was opening its doors much wider, and the new rich coming back. They exist side by side at the court at the present day, but there is not much communication between them. Each goes its own way, each despising and jealous of the other.

During the war, indeed, the court was very simple and economical. But as soon as peace came it was explained to the King that for the good of trade a quick return must be made to the old splendors.

Today, the one thing that all who attend the courts and levees of King George and Queen Mary require, over and above a good introduction, is a well lined purse. Dowdy gowns and long lineages are no longer in fashion. By the magnificence of their receptions it is hoped that money will circulate and that visitors of wealth will be attracted from the Dominions, from Europe and above all, perhaps, from America. It is the last of the great courts and perhaps the most magnificent in its show of jewels and beautiful gowns that has been for a hundred years. And the Queen, conquering her instincts for economy, outdoes them all. King George, now that he is used to it, has become obviously proud of her stately beauty and of the new, becoming way in which she does her silvery gold hair.

Every one who has been presented at court is technically "in society." After she has been confirmed, and put her hair up, and done her year at a finishing school on the Continent, an aristocratic girl, or the daughter of a man of means, is launched on the world by being presented to Their Majesties by her mother, or some friend or relative, to make her first bow at court. It is whispered that many ladies of high rank but diminished means make a good deal of money by standing sponsor for girls whose families have risen too quickly to make friends among people able to present them in this way.

Introductions
Not Difficult.

An ordinary introduction, too, is not very hard to get, but it makes all the difference between a girl standing friendless and alone in a corner, where every one else seems enjoying themselves, to have an introducer who really is able to smooth the path. Owing to this carefully hidden method, many an unknown beauty has made a brilliant match. Their Majesties are not supposed to know of such things, and anyway, in this democratic age, there is nothing against a debutante having a fair chance with the daughter of aristocracy.

Newly wedded brides are expected to be re-presented at court after their marriage, and had it not chanced that the young Duchess of York had contracted whooping cough this season, she would have taken her place as a married woman at court, although in her case formal presentation, of course, would not have been necessary.

In Victorian days, the sovereign kissed the cheek of the daughters of peers, and girls of lesser rank kissed the Queen's hand. Nowadays a curtsey suffices. A court curtsey is a movement that requires a certain amount of training, but those accustomed to court life acquire the trick of performing it quickly and gracefully.

Gentlemen accompany their women folk to the courts but do not pass before the throne. They make their own bows to the King at his levees, which are attended only by men.

The Lord Chamberlain investigates the credentials of all who send in their names as wishing to make their bows at court.

Divorcees Are Not Welcomed.

In Queen Victoria's day the blots on the family escutcheon were enough to bar a would-be debutante from ever from the court. King Edward was less strict. But King George has reverted to this in a measure. No divorced person nor any one whose family has been mixed in a scandal is granted an invitation. But if a girl is respectable, well educated, and possessed of sufficient money, their present Majesties are willing to receive her as their guest, one might say, for rowdies courts are really magnificent evening receptions, at which fine suppers are served, beautiful music is heard, and where those who have made their bows may meet their friends and converse pleasantly. It was very different in the chilly days of Queen Victoria. Naturally it is not very amusing to attend a court unless one has friends in the circle of society which frequents the palace.

There is one other customary bar to presentation at court—that the aspirant must not be engaged in retail trade. Even that restriction is losing its force today, for their Majesties have lately received the daughter of a big American storekeeper, who carries on his immense business within a mile of Buckingham Palace.

The "fence" collar is a feature of some afternoon frocks shown in New York. It is more nearly circular than boat shaped, and as its name implies it stands away from the neck with a fence-like attitude.

The college girl in the East is growing demure in her daytime frocks, though the materials are silk. The chintz garb this season is a crepe silk with white silk collar and cuffs the whole made very simply.

Although there is no doubt that brown in almost every shade is a dominant autumn color, yet blue is also in high favor at present. This is especially true of the blues called Chinese.

Paisley heads, in the soft paisley colors, are used on many wrist bags and even on gowns in London. Wooden beads, rather large and flat are also fashionable, especially shades of rose red and almond green. A survey at afternoon tea in the Berkeley proves tortoise shell beads to be in favor also.

NEW GOLF CHAMPION BEGAN PLAYING WHEN 7 Edith Cummings a Society Girl Who Loves Outdoors

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 15
WHEN Miss Edith Cummings of Chicago brought home the National Women's Golf Championship from Rye, N. Y., a few days ago, she proved that a society woman can go out in a field and work—that beauty and brains can pull together.

Miss Cummings traded the traditional silver spoon for a niblick at the age of 7. She has chased golf balls into their holes in practically all of the countries on our best-known continents.

Since winning the championship writers concurred that Miss Cummings is the greater woman golfer in the United States. Born to luxury and social prominence, she has chosen to excel in golf.

Debutante Four Years Ago.

She was formally introduced to society only four years ago, but has been on intimate terms with the links for the past 17 years. She has tried for championships before and many times she has carried away medals and near-titles.

Her friends welcomed her home to the Onwentsia Club at Lake Forest with banners flying and bands playing. The little lady just smiled and seemed to enjoy the fuss as though it were the happiest moment of her life. But behind her back, the younger set are betting gold eagles to doughnuts she will be planning a conquest of Europe within the next three months.

She attended school at Westover and in France and there distinguished herself as a brilliant student as well as exceptionally good at all outdoor sports including hockey and tennis. She is 24.

What to Do With Quinces

QUINCES are now in market and most housekeepers know they make excellent jelly, jam and preserves—it is not generally known that they can be converted into delicious desserts.

Baked Quinces.

Pare and core the quinces and fill the cavities with sugar. Put a bit of butter on top and sprinkle with a little grated lemon peel. Bake in a shallow pan with a little water in, baste frequently with the syrup in the pan. When tender place quinces on a dish to cool. Strain the syrup and add an equal quantity of sugar, boil a few minutes, then pour over the quinces. Serve cold with whipped cream or meringue over the top.

Porcupine Quinces.

Make a syrup of equal parts of sugar and water and flavor with lemon. Two cupsfuls each of sugar and water will be sufficient for half a dozen quinces. Into this put the pared and cored quinces and cover tightly. As soon as done, carefully remove the fruit and fill cavities with chopped nuts and candied or maraschino cherries. All over the outside stick blanched almonds cut lengthwise into fine strips. Cook syrup until thick, then pour it over the quinces.

Tomato Jelly Salad

POUR contents of a quart can of tomatoes into a granite pan, bring to boil and add a pinch of soda. Let simmer five minutes with small onion and tablespoon of sugar, then force through strainer. Bring to boil, add two-thirds box of gelatin that has been soaked in one-half cup of cold water. When gelatin is dissolved pour into baking powder cans and chill.

VEGETABLE LOAF

SOMETIMES one tablespoon gelatin in one-half cup cold water. Boil two quarts of stock (from leftover meat or bones of day before) course it is regrettable that one must grow old, but why worry over it?

Look forward to a certain age when, if you are like some persons, you will be crippled up with rheumatism, or have some other ailment to incapacitate you?

You may not be at all like any of these whom you have pictured.

You may be the exception to the rule.

You may never reach that age ahead which you now consider as the age of senile decay.

Stop worrying about a time which may never be reached.

Don't try to convince yourself that the time is coming when you will be considered only as "around in the way."

Keep young by having young thoughts.

Keep fit by taking proper care of yourself.

Take an interest in today, not in bygone days.

Be hopeful, prayerful and optimistic.

Lest We Forget Our Old Songs

By WINIFRED BLACK

"NO," said the musician, "I shall not let my daughters sing trash."

"There's too much good music in the world—they'll either sing that or sing nothing."

And then he looked very virtuous and expected us all to applaud.

And we all did. Have you ever noticed how most people usually do what they're expected to do? But afterward when the musician was singing, and someone got out a book of old songs, he sang some of them to us.

"Bonnie Doon" and "Annie Laurie" and "Kathleen Mavourneen." Yes, and even "My Old Kentucky Home" and "Poor Nellie Grey." And at the end of the evening he sang "Bonnie Eloise, the Pride of the Hawk Vale," and "When the Springtime Comes, Gentle-Annie." And nobody said a word about trash.

And it would have all been very well if I hadn't known that the "trash" he talked about when he was speaking of his daughters was made up of songs just exactly as good as most of these, only they weren't old.

"Mysterious India"—"White Hands, Where Are You Now?"—"The Little Stars of Duna Call Me Home" and "Roses in Picardy"—he would have none of these, not a note of them in his house. But when he was through with the opera and the moderns of the classical school, he was quite willing to sing for us the old songs his mother sang.

Odd, how a little time can change things, isn't it?

That's the one thing, and just the one thing, that's too bad about the phonograph. Who's going to teach the children the old songs when all they hear are the new ones?

Songs We Should Not Forget.

The new ones are fine, too. Lots of them are full of sentiment and a kind of simple beauty. But dear me! Just think of a girl 14 years old who never heard "Old Black Joe." There are lots of them, hundreds all over this country, and they call themselves Americans.

"Poor Nellie Grey"—she's forgotten too. And so is "Lily Dale." And as for poor "Bonnie, Bonnie Blue-Eyed Elsie"—why, most of the boys and girls in high school now never even heard of her.

And how about the old hymns? You used to know them by heart, and you weren't so very religious, either. But they come back to you in every hour of trouble—don't they?

They do to me.

"By Cool Siloam's Shady Rill, How the Lily Blows."

And fair indeed the lily blows for me when I remember the dear voice that sang me back to health and life again, long and long ago.

"Lead, Kindly Light, amid the encircling gloom"—I can hear them singing it in the dusk of the fragrant Summers, there in the old church with the windows open and all the pink and yellow trees gay with blossoms.

"And how is Scrymgeour?" he inquired.

"Oh, all right," replied the young man with red hair absently. Sally can speak a word of English which, one felt, characterized all his actions, had just succeeded in lighting a cigarette in the teeth of a strong breeze, threw away the match and resumed the conversation, which had presumably been interrupted by the process of sitting down.

"I was surprised at his being here. He told me he meant to stay in Paris."

There was a slight pause. Sally gave the attentive poodle a piece of nougat.

"I say," observed the red-haired young man in clear, penetrating tones that vibrated with intense feeling, "that's the prettiest girl I've seen in my life!"

At this frank revelation of the

The Man on the Sandbox by L. C. Danner

THE CHANGED FAN.

According to the current news, the baseball fan does not enthuse as in the days of yore. When some one makes a circuit clout he does not stamp his feet and shout and make the welkin roar.

When some one makes a timely crack, he does not slap his neighbor's back and throw away his hat. He does not try to wreck the stands but says, "hooray!" or claps his hands and lets it go at that.

The fan is getting so blasé. It's getting harder every day. His interest to beguile. He seems so lifeless and inert that even when theump gets hurt he hardly cracks a smile.

And when a player kicks it off he doesn't bawl him out and scoff. Nor take the matter hard. A philosophic guy is he. And from his equanimity he simply can't be jarred.

THE DISTURBING ELEMENT.

THE terrible tempered Mr. Pepper came home from business in an especially irritated frame of mind. The supper did not suit him, news of what had gone on in the household, as detailed by his patient wife, served only to put an added edge upon his grouch.

Through long experience, Mrs. Pepper knew the signs. In an effort to burst, she had the children off to bed and then set out for a call upon one of the neighbors leaving Mr. Pepper in his favorite chair—if he had any favorite chair, with the library lamp placed where the light would fall just over his left shoulder and with the evening paper across his lap.

But Mr. Pepper declined to be soothed. A student of psychology would have said he registered disappointment. Everything was so peaceful and calm. There was no one within earshot with whom he might find fault.

As listlessly he took up the newspaper, a very small kitten came silently in through the half-open door. As it crept across the floor toward him, Mr. Pepper, with the manner of one driven beyond control, flung the sheet from him and in a voice of thunder roared at the offending creature:

"What the devil do you mean by stamping in here like that?"

COOLIDGE URGES FREIGHT CUT ON WHEAT AND COAL

Suggests Reduced Rate of Grain for Export and Lower Tariff on Coal for Domestic Uses.

PRESIDENT WON'T
ABROGATE TREATIES
Will Follow Course of W son and Harding in Re fusing Preferential Tar Duties.

The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—President Coolidge suggested today to President Rea at a White House conference, and the Pennsylvania executive probably will consider the suggestion in conjunction with executives of other large railroads.

In proposing that the same rate apply on coal destined for export as on coal for domestic consumption, Mr. Coolidge directed attention to protests received from New York and New England that the railroads were carrying coal through the States to Canadian points at a lower rate than was given coal consumers and dealers in the United States.

May Help Wheat Situation.
While recognizing that perhaps the lower export rate might be based on sound economic reasoning, President told Mr. Rea, it was a mistake, in his opinion, to promote good feeling.

With respect to reduction of rates on wheat for export, the President said he felt that such action as the roads would be helpful in the wheat situation and would prove wise policy for the railroads to follow.

Although the suggestions were made solely to Mr. Rea, the President believes that whatever the Pennsylvania may take will be followed by the other railroads concerned in the shipment of soft wheat and coal.

Won't Abrogate Trade Treaties.
President Coolidge has decided to follow the course of President Wilson and President Harding in refusing to abrogate certain commercial treaties which Congress directed should be terminated in 1920.

The treaties, 30 in number, prohibit the United States from importing preferential tariff duties on goods carried in American ships. A mandatory publication of their abrogation was contained in the 1920 Merchant Marine Act, but Mr. Wilson and Mr. Harding both informed the legislative branch of the Government that it would be impossible to do so.

The views of President Coolidge on the subject were disclosed today in connection with the press statement by the executive by Alexander Smith, a New York shipping man, of a plan for a 10 per cent reduction in duties on imports when carried in American vessels. The President took the suggestion under consideration, but he feels that it would directly conflict with the treaties.

Action by Congress Failed.
After coming into the presidential office, Mr. Coolidge sought the advice of the State Department on the question of abrogating the treaties, and the department advised him that abrogation would not be practical.

The position of the department is that the entire treaty in each case would have to be abrogated, and when new treaties are signed, the foreign nations concerned undoubtedly would demand some sort of preferential treatment in return for giving up to the United States the right to impose import duties on American-carried goods.

Shipping men have long urged that the Government assist in building of a merchant marine through the abrogation of the treaties and imposition of preferential rates. After Presidents Wilson and Harding had refused to act, Congress debated a proposal to abolish the abrogation by direct action by the Senate and House, but the resolution never came to a vote.

Investigation Begun by Interstate Commerce Commission.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—An investigation was instituted today by the Interstate Commerce Commission to determine whether present rates on grain and grain products are justifiable.

At the same time the commission announced its decision in the proceedings instituted by West Coast states to secure reduction of grain rates west of the Mississippi River, declaring that on the evidence presented there was insufficient evidence to decrease rates in force. The commission ordered the record in the Western States' complaint opened, however, and the proceedings retried.
